

C.C.C. ADVISER
LAUDS ALL WHO SERVED CAUSE OF LIBERTY, JUSTICE

Before one of the largest gatherings that has ever witnessed the annual memorial exercises of the colored residents of Gettysburg, services were conducted Sunday afternoon in the colored cemetery, South Washington street, after a street parade.

The program at the rostrum followed the strewing of flowers by colored children and citizens while the Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg played "Nearer My God to Thee." The memorial address was delivered by Clarence J. Grinnell, educational adviser at C.C.C. camp M. P. 2 on the battlefield.

David Stanton, a member of the committee on arrangements, served as master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by John Carter. After joining in the pledge of allegiance, the audience sang "America" with the accompaniment of the band. John Myers, a Gettysburg high school student, recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Fought for Cause of Liberty

In his address Mr. Grinnell paid tribute to "those staunch and true men and women we honor today who so willingly forgot their own personal welfare and linked their lives and all that they were with the cause of liberty and justice."

He continued: "And yet even in death these Americans lying here are to be envied because they were what comes to few men — an opportunity to be of direct, vital service to the country. To be young, to be fit and to have a part however small in the great events that are making the world over into a happier and safer place for our children to live in is something for a man to be proud of now and to remember with satisfaction to his last day."

He pledged that: "We who stand here in your memory will continue to strive to reach the ideals for which you suffered, fought and died." Calling for a closer understanding between Americans, he asserted: "The brotherhood of man may only be a far away dream, but the brotherhood of those who speak one language, have one great aim, and fight side by side for freedom against force and law against lawlessness is a reality and must surely endure long after the smoke of all wars has faded into the blue sky of peace and the roar of guns has died away into the silence of the dawn for which humanity is longing."

School Children March

After the address the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and taps was sounded on the bugle by Sergeant W. L. Baldwin, York. The benediction was given by John Carter.

The procession which moved from West High street shortly after 2 o'clock was headed by a borough police escort and Chief Marshal Walter Carter and his aide, Emory Thomas. The Blue and Gray band was followed by several hundred school children, their escorts and citizens. In the second division were the Junior Legion drum and bugle corps of Gettysburg, a color guard and members from the Albert J. Lentz post, No. 202, Spanish American war veterans, Sons of Union Veterans' Reserves, uniformed members of the local C.C.C. camp, citizens of Gettysburg and the speaker and other guests in automobiles.

The committee in charge included I. Walter Carter, David Stanton, Allen Brown and Emory Thomas.

LAUGHMAN INQUEST TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY

On Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, will conduct an inquest into the death of Nathaniel Laughman, 26, Abbottstown R. 1, who was killed while he walked on the Hanover highway at the southern edge of Abbottstown the night of May 13. The inquest will be held at the scene of the accident.

The car which struck Laughman, who was "apparently intoxicated" in the opinion of investigating officers, was operated by George W. Frank, 32, 252 Third street, Hanover.

Marriage license applications were filed this afternoon at the office of clerk of the courts here by Leroy Grayson Lady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Lady, Biglerville, and Rhoda Jean Miller, daughter of Henry P. Miller, Ridley Park, and by Leroy Charles Kiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kiser, Littlestown, and Pearl Louise Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hill, Menges Mills.

A marriage license application was filed Saturday afternoon at the office of the clerk of the courts here by Donald Francis Reigle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Reigle, McSherrystown, and Dorothy Maria Musselman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Musselman, Hanover.

Another Small Plane Hops for Europe

The second attempt this spring to fly the Atlantic in tiny airplanes was made by Thomas H. Smith, of Los Angeles, in the four-cylinder monoplane shown above. At left is a closeup of Smith in the cabin. At right he is shown just before his dawn takeoff from Old Orchard Beach, Maine. His route followed that of Carl Bachman, Swedish flier, who disappeared earlier in May during an attempt to fly to Sweden in a tiny plane of different design.

Scotland May Be
"Baby Clipper"

London, May 29 (AP) — A small airplane flying very high and believed by some to be Thomas H. Smith's tiny "baby clipper" was sighted at 4:15 p. m. (G.M.T.), (11:15 a. m., E.S.T.) today over Wigtownshire, on the western tip of Scotland, headed toward England. The plane which was coming from Ireland was seen about three miles inland.

Old Orchard Beach, Me., May 29 (AP) — Only the north Atlantic's rolling wastes knew the whereabouts today of 24-year-old Thomas H. Smith and the "baby clipper" he lifted from Old Orchard's hard-packed sands in an unsanctioned experimental flight to Europe.

Into Sunday's dawn, the Los Angeles birdman nosed his 670-pound monoplane with its four-cylinder, 65-horsepower engine on a course associates said was plotted for a landfall at Slyne Head, Ireland, nearly 2,800 miles away, about noon today.

Fog and rain clamped a low ceiling over the first third of his route. No word came of the tiny ship's (Continued on Page Five)

BOY AND GIRL,
AGED 6 AND 11,
HURT IN FALLS

John Sites, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sites, Fairfield R. 1, was admitted to the Warner hospital this morning with a fractured left leg. He was hurt in a fall from a horse.

Helen Lazos, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lazos, Water street, was treated at the hospital Sunday for brushburns to the right leg and abrasions to the right elbow sustained in a fall from a bicycle.

Richard Romagna, a student at Gettysburg College, was treated Sunday for lacerations to the scalp received while diving in the Piney Mountain inn pool Sunday.

Ruth Wentz, McKnightstown, was operated upon this morning for the removal of her appendix.

Gene Spangler, Taneytown, submitted to an operation this morning for the removal of his tonsils.

Mrs. Preston Baumgardner, Fairfield, received treatment this morning for a pellet imbedded in her right index finger.

Patients admitted to the hospital over the week-end were Evadene Fohl, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fohl, Aspers R. 1; Mrs. Wilmer Fidler, East Berlin R. D.; Mrs. Joseph Stoner, Littlestown, and Mrs. Harry Stambaugh, Taneytown. Those discharged were Clair Keefe, McKnightstown; Andrew Marx, Littlestown; William Reed, Iron Springs; Mrs. Guy A. Cutshall and infant son, Jay Marlin, Biglerville R. 1; Mrs. H. Edgar Reigle and infant son, Larry George, Winchester, Virginia, and Charles B. Hartman, West Middle street.

WANDERER ARRESTED

After annoying residents of Goldenville and Mummaburg Saturday evening and Sunday morning by meeting refusals for "handouts" with verbal abuse, Robert Gill, 52, of no fixed address, was arrested by Officer Ray E. Oberheim, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, on a disorderly conduct charge. Taken before Justice of the Peace John H. Bashore this morning he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the county jail for 15 days in default of payment of a $10 fine and costs.

7 ENROLLEES
NEEDED TO FILL
C.M.T.C. QUOTA
FIVE INJURED AS
CAR ROLLS OVER
C.M.T.C. QUOTA
NEAR HANOVER

Officials in charge of enrolling young Adams county men for the Citizen's Military Training camps in the Third Corps area have been informed that nine boys have made application for entrance at one of the camps to be conducted from July 6 to August 4.

The quota for Adams county is 16 applications.

While calling attention to the benefits that young men derive from the time spent at a training camp, officers of the Third Corps area have indicated that should the county quota of 16 not be filled this year, the number of applications for future campaign seasons might be reduced.

The reason for this action, it is believed, lies in the fact that other counties in Pennsylvania have more applicants than they can handle and if Adams county does not fill its allotted number, the excess will be given to a section that needs them.

The purpose of the camps is explained as follows:

"To bring together annually, for a month's training, the best representative young American citizens from all sections of the nation; to give them the basis of military instruction and that physical and moral development that will fit them to become influential leaders in their respective communities in times of peace and leaders for national defense in time of war; to inculcate a stronger patriotism and a wholesome respect for discipline and obedience to constituted authority, and above all, to teach the young men of this generation their serious duties, responsibilities, and obligation to home and country."

Application blanks are available from the members of the Adams county committee. On that group are the following: George W. Boehner, Gettysburg, chairman; J. Raymond Belz, George D. Lavelle, and F. V. Topper, all of McSherrystown; Victor C. Crouse, Littlestown; Charles I. Raffensperger, Biglerville; W. R. Starry, York Springs; C. C. Taylor, Arendtsville, and G. Kenneth Newbould, Gettysburg.

John Andrew, of Cashtown, received his application blank last week. He intends to enroll for his second year in one of the C.M.T.C. camps.

EIGHTH GRADE
AWARDS LISTED

Miss Mary McMillion, West Middle street, was announced as the winner of the $10 first prize for girls in the annual Edward Johnson McPherson Memorial award while the first and second prizes for the boys will be divided equally between George Raffensperger, Jr., South Stratton street, and Donald Oyster, East Lincoln avenue, who tied for first honors among the boys. Each boy will receive $7.50.

Doris Glenn, East Lincoln avenue, is the winner of the second prize of $5 for the girls.

Announcement of the winners was made this afternoon by Paul R. Mehring, Lincoln school building principal.

The awards will be presented during the annual eighth grade graduation exercises to be held at the Gettysburg high school auditorium on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Hereter, Howard street, visited relatives in Bedford over the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Gilbert, Chambersburg street, spent the week-end with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shader, Harrisburg.

Five persons escaped with minor injuries and a shaking up and a sixth person was unhurt when the car in which they were riding rolled over on the Hanover-Abbottstown highway about 2:15 o'clock Sunday morning after colliding with another machine.

Later, while occupants of the second car attempted to signal a passing car for assistance for the injured, one of the machines involved in the first crash was struck a second time.

The accident, which occurred about a mile north of Hanover, took place as cars operated by Miss Ethel Margaret Frey, 28, Abbottstown R. 3, and by Charles R. Hamme, 19, Abbottstown R. D., side-swiped. Miss Frey had been driving toward Hanover and Hamme in the opposite direction.

After the collision Miss Frey's car turned over and rolled along the highway for about 65 feet coming to a stop on its wheels in a wheatfield along the side of the highway. It was headed in the direction from which it had come. None of the occupants had been thrown out, but the car was almost demolished. Damage was estimated at about $450.

2d Crash at Scene

The Hamme car had come to a stop at right angles with the highway with one end in the ditch at the side of the road. While Hamme and a companion tried to signal passing traffic with a flashlight a south-bound car operated by Paul Kitzmiller, 21, 319 Spring avenue, Hanover, struck the front end of the disabled Hamme car.

The only persons injured in either crash were occupants of Miss Frey's car. The driver suffered bruises and brush burns of the face. J. Edward Moul, 33, Middle street, Hanover, is a patient in the Hanover General hospital with possible fractures of three ribs and bruises to the head and face. Miss Sada C. Pyle, 23, Hanover, suffered contusions of the face and an injury to the right hip. Horace Frey, 24, Abbottstown, a brother of the operator, had his left thumb broken, cuts on fingers of the left hand and cuts on the right knee. Miss Mary Moul, 26, sister of Edward, had abrasions of the face and bruises of both knees. With the exception of Moul, the injured were treated at the office of a Hanover physician.

Returning From Dance
Officer W. W. Hoover, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, who began an investigation of the accident Sunday morning was continuing his probe today.

Damage to the Hamme car in both collisions was estimated at about $250. The Kitzmiller car was damaged to the extent of about $5.

The injured persons were occupants of a sedan and were enroute to Hanover after attending a dance of the alumnae association of the nurses' training school of the York city hospital at the York Country club. The Misses Pyle and Moul are alumnae of the nurses' training school of the York hospital and Miss Frey is a graduate of a nurses' school of a Harrisburg hospital.

FLAGS PLACED ON GRAVES; LARGE
RADIO HOOK-UP
FOR BYRD'S TALK

This morning 3,814 American flags were placed on the graves of soldiers of all wars in the National cemetery by national park employees in preparation for Memorial Day. At the same time 69 flags were used to mark the graves of veterans interred in the adjoining Evergreen cemetery.

Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, will deliver the Memorial Day address in the cemetery at 4 o'clock (E.S.T.) Tuesday afternoon. His speech, which will be on the subject, "Seventy-six Years After Gettysburg," will be broadcast on a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Officials of the National Broadcasting company have disclosed that the number of stations on Tuesday's hook-up will be the largest ever assembled for an event sent out by radio from Gettysburg.

The exercises in the cemetery will follow a parade at 3 o'clock of school children and members of patriotic organizations over the streets of Gettysburg.

Travel Figures

There were an estimated 2,400 visitors in the National cemetery Sunday during one of the busiest week-ends of the year. Superintendent C. L. Nett said guides' reports showed there were 66 pleasure cars with 249 tourists taken on long battlefield trips Sunday; 47 cars and 180 visitors on short trips, and five buses which carried 127 passengers.

Travel figures at the National cemetery show that for the week ending Sunday there was a heavier visitation on the battlefield than during the same week last year. Records show that last week there were 230 long guided trips with 795 visitors; 197 short trips with 595 visitors, and 43 buses with 1,291 visitors for a total of 470 guided trips and 2,681 visitors.

The figures for the same week of 1938 were: 246 long trips with 849 visitors; 176 short trips with 515 visitors, and 41 buses with 1,117 visitors for totals of 463 guided trips and 2,481 visitors.

STATE PARKS WILL OPEN ON TUESDAY

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP) — The summer season for Pennsylvania's 87 parks, recreation and historic areas will open officially Tuesday.

Secretary G. Albert Stewart, of the department of forests and waters said many new facilities such as fire places, tables and shelters have been constructed in many of the park areas to accommodate tourists.

High School Seniors Urged
To Give Lives of Unselfish
Service by Rev. Dr. Thomas

"Aim to make a liberal contribution to the world's work by giving a life of unselfish service for others," the Rev. Dr. N. B. S. Thomas, Memorial United Brethren pastor, urged the 113 members of the graduating class of Gettysburg high school in the annual baccalaureate sermon delivered Sunday evening in St. James Lutheran church before an audience that filled the auditorium.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas told the seniors that definite purpose in life, preparation for achievement of that goal and serving fellowmen and God through unselfish effort are essential to success in life.

Following the organ prelude "Sabbath Eve," members of the graduating class, who will be graduated at exercises at the high school on Thursday evening, entered the auditorium in their gray caps and gowns. Ahead of them were the members of the faculty and the school board who stepped aside and let the seniors take reserved seats at the front of the auditorium.

Mixed Choir Offers Anthem

After the singing of the hymn "Sun of My Soul," the invocation was given by the Rev. Dr. Thomas. The anthem "Beautiful Savior" was presented by a mixed choir of high school students under the direction of Miss Dorothy Brindle, supervisor of music in the Gettysburg public schools. The anthem was presented without accompaniment. The solo part was by Audrey Shoop.

The Rev. Spencer W. Augst, St. James pastor, read the scripture lesson from Romans 12:1-14 and Doctor Thomas offered prayer. After the offering was received the congregation sang "A Charge to Keep I Have." The sermon followed.

County Communities Hold Memorial Day Exercises

Arendtsville

Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the history department of Gettysburg college, was the principal speaker at the Memorial Day exercises in Arendtsville Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He spoke on the history of Memorial Day.

The invocation was given by the Rev. George H. Berkheimer, Earl Stumm gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address and the benediction was given by the Rev. Ernest W. Brindle. School children strewed flowers on the graves. P. S. Orner was the master of ceremonies.

Biglerville

An address by Samuel Serff, Hanover, featured the exercises at Biglerville Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. His subject was "The Benefit of the American Legion to the Nation."

The program follows: Invocation, the Rev. H. O. Sipe; selection by a men's quartet including Kenneth Alwine, George Reisinger, Earl Crum and Harold Martenas; reading, Dean Pink; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Cyrus G. Bucher, and benediction, the Rev. H. W. Sternat.

Prof. Leslie V. Stock presided at the ceremonies which included the strewing of flowers by the school children.

Hunterstown

A crowd estimated at 600 persons attended annual memorial services on Saturday evening in the Great Conewago Presbyterian church at Hunterstown. The address was delivered by the Rev. U. A. Guss, supply pastor at Great Conewago church.

Because of the threat of rain the procession formed at the Great Conewago church instead of at the Methodist church in Hunterstown and moved to the cemetery nearby where flowers were strewed by children of the two Sunday schools

G.A.R. MEMORIAL
SPEAKER SAYS
LIFE STILL HAS BATTLEGROUND

Honoring the soldier dead of the nation and particularly two members of Corporal Skelly post, No. 9, of the G.A.R. of Gettysburg who died since last Memorial Day, members of the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Union Veterans conducted the annual memorial service in the East Middle street post room, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

After pointing to the unstinting sacrifice of the men who fought and died for the principle of liberty in this nation, the Rev. Donald R. Heiges, of Gettysburg college, concluded his memorial address with the assertion: "Life still has its battlegrounds. Let us pray that freedom may still have its heroes. Still then will our country be 'sweet land of liberty.'"

In his introduction, the Rev. Mr. Heiges warned against the dangers of glorifying the present and held that disparagement of the past is "terribly unfortunate, unhealthy and unwise."

Battled for Ideal

He continued: "This afternoon we are gathered to pay our respects to the past; to pay tribute to our soldier dead; to hear what memory has to say about those who risked their lives for something they held to be dearer than life. . . ."

"Those we honor today were not primarily concerned about their own life and happiness. They were primarily concerned about the cause to which they were willing to give their last full measure of devotion. They did not go to battle to win safety and security for themselves; they went to battle for an ideal, a conviction, a loyalty which they knew full well did not guarantee them one bit of personal gain. They gave everything they had in a bold adventure which promised nothing but privation, misery, hardship and probably the loss of their own life's blood."

"Contrast this spirit with the temper of the present streamlined, up-to-date, encyclopedic generation. The present generation of which I am a member is to an appalling extent a disillusioned one. Ideals and beliefs and convictions which meant everything to our forefathers have in large part become meaningless and hollow. . . . Consequently, members of the present generation are supremely concerned with themselves since there is nothing else to be seriously concerned about."

"The present generation had better take seriously the ideal for which our soldier dead fought some 75 years ago—the ideal of human freedom. . . . Our immediate concern in America is the status of freedom in our own country in the face of the eclipse of freedom throughout the world. There is abundant evidence that a psychology quite at variance with that of freedom is gripping the American mind. It is a psychology of security at all costs (Continued on Page Two)

COL. LAMPERT STRESSES NEED OF U. S. DEFENSE

"For those who cannot be convinced of the practical necessity, if not the fundamental decency of living to the Golden Rule, there must at present, as always, be a persuader in the form of a big club. The threat and certainty of its use when necessary will usually suffice. The most vital form of this big club is the maintenance of the physical means to our country to defend itself and the will of the people to do so. That is national defense."

Thus spoke Lt. Col. Lester L. Lampert, commandant of the Gettysburg College R.O.T.C. in a Memorial Day address in Chambersburg, Sunday.

"Without national defense there would be chaos within our borders. Without it savages from outside our borders, finding us helpless, would descend upon us, annex our territory, and enslave our people. There are some things even worse than death and one of them is slavery. The course of human events is indelibly written in the history of all nations who have lost either the physical means or the will to defend themselves," continued Colonel Lampert.

"We have today, fortunately, a reasonable adequate defense plan. However, it is based on all sides by enemies in our midst. Among these are peace at any price pacifists (probably only so long as they do not have to pay the price); advocates for the declaration of war by national referendum (of course the enemy is going to show sufficient sporting spirit not to take advantage of the intervening delay); advocates for the elimination of military training in schools (willing to sacrifice our youth blindfolded and with their hands tied behind their backs), and many others of like ilk."

Closing his address, Colonel Lampert said: "Against these enemies to adequate preparedness I urge that we guard our country to the end that we may secure a just peace for a free people; that should another war engulf us that we may be prepared to stamp it out with the minimum loss of life and property. Let us pray for peace but at the same time, for our children's sake, let us keep our powder dry."

Installation of new officers by Mrs. Spencer W. Aungst, retiring president of the Gettysburg Mother's club, will be a feature of the annual spring luncheon of the club which will be held Wednesday at "Maple Corner," Springs avenue. Mrs. A. R. Wentz will assume her new duties as president and Mrs. D. Perry Bucke will replace Mrs. Kenderton S. Lynch as recording secretary. Committee and department chairman appointments will be made at this time. A sealed program has been prepared for the occasion.

Fred Schwartz has returned from a southern business trip to spend a few days with his family on West Stevens street.

H. Sherwood Young, Spring Lake, New Jersey, is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. George D. Stahley, Carlisle street.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Cairns, Miss Anna Cairns and James Scott Cairns, Springs avenue, have returned from a visit with friends at Cambridge, Maryland.

Mrs. Fred Schwartz and daughters, Bonnie and Phyllis, and son, John, West Stevens street, were visitors in Harrisburg Saturday.

INDICTMENTS IN CAMPAIGN CASE ARE HELD VALID

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—Indictments naming a dozen high democrats in the campaign charges case were sustained today by Judge Howard W. Hughes in Dauphin county court.

Judge Hughes dismissed one indictment naming five officials of the democratic county committee in charges of conspiracy to "blackmail and extort" campaign contributions. Those individuals, however, along with others were named in another indictment charging political coercion. The court ordered the accused brought to trial on these counts.

District Attorney Carl B. Shelley announced the first of the trials would begin Monday, June 12, but would not say who would be called first. He also said a new bill on the charges quashed would be presented for grand jury action as soon as possible.

Three members of the former Governor George H. Earle's cabinet were named in the indictments upheld. They included:

David Lawrence, democratic state chairman and former secretary of the commonwealth charged with making of state employees for political contributions; blackmail, conspiracy to cheat and defraud the commonwealth and violation of the election laws.

Ralph M. Bashore, secretary of the democratic state committee, and former secretary of Labor and Industry, making.

Roy E. Brownmiller, former secretary of highways, conspiracy in charges of payroll padding in Luzerne county.

H. H. Temple, dismissed chief highways engineer; James P. Kirk, Pittsburgh insurance agent, and Victor Skok, an associate, conspiracy to control the bond business of highway contractors.

Discover Mysterious Post-Mortem on Body Of Murder Ring Victim

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—Coroner Charles H. Hersch announced today a mysterious post-mortem, by persons unknown, had been performed on the exhumed body of a woman named by detectives as the victim of the Philadelphia mass insurance murder ring.

The woman was Mrs. Lena Winkelman, whose body was taken by court order from a grave in nearby Bucks county about a week ago. Joseph Schwartz, the woman's son-in-law, is charged with poisoning her.

"A post mortem had been performed on the body, by whom we do not know," Coroner Hersch said as his staff prepared for an autopsy later in the day. "Our physician saw where the body had been opened, but we will not know its condition until our own autopsy takes place."

He said he knew of no basis for reports that the vital organs, subjected to analysis in a search for poison, had been removed and the abdominal cavity stuffed with straw.

The official autopsy originally was scheduled for last Friday, but it was postponed when the undertaker who buried the woman was unable to identify either the coffin or the body. The name plate and coffin serial number were missing.

VANDENBURG WILL SEEK REELECTION

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Senator Arthur R. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) announced today he would seek re-election to the senate in 1940, but added that "if there are subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of ability."

Vandenberg's statement was made in a letter replying to a request from Michigan republican officials that he be drafted for the party's presidential nomination next year.

HOOVER TRIES TO FORM BLOC FOR GOP CONVENTION

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was described by intimates here today as working quietly to line up a large bloc of uninstructed delegates to the republican convention next year.

In recent talks with republican leaders over the country, it was said, Mr. Hoover recently visited suggestions—that republicans pick a candidate who will wage an uncompromising fight against the new deal and that state delegations go to the conventions uninstructed.

Mr. Hoover has said that he himself is not a candidate for the presidential nomination and that he is not working in behalf of any candidate.

Persons in a position to know said the former president's principal desire was to command sufficient convention strength to enable him to play a major role in the selection of a nominee and in drafting the party platform.

Mr. Hoover was reported to feel that there should be no effort by republicans to "beat the new deal at its own game" but that the campaign should center on a direct attack against the present administration's program.

It was said authoritatively that he probably would oppose the candidacy of any individual who did not share his fundamental political philosophy.

Mr. Hoover recently visited Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, but reports were that he merely sounded out the prosecutor's basic political views and made no commitments regarding the stand he will take when candidate-picking time comes.

Another possible contender for the nomination, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), will reply this week to a statement from Michigan republican officials urging that he be drafted to head the ticket.

Friends said Vandenberg's reply would say that he would be gratified to receive the nomination, but would not indicate that he was actively campaigning. (Vandenberg was the Memorial Day speaker in the exercise at Gettysburg last year.)

Miner Rescued After 65 Hours Under Rock, Dirt

Shenandoah, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Laughing and joking with rescuers, Robert Galligan, 38-year-old anthracite miner, was dug out of a coal hole early today apparently uninjured after 65 hours imprisonment under tons of rock and dirt.

Rescuers, who had toiled unceasingly, first with a steam shovel and then with pick and shovel, reached Galligan at 12:55 a. m. E.S.T. Hoisted up a 75-foot deep shaft, Galligan greeted fellow miners on the surface with "gimme a ciggie (cigarette) and let me sit down a while."

He was rushed to Locust Mountain state hospital, where physicians said he was suffering slightly from shock but was otherwise uninjured. They planned to keep him at the hospital for observation.

A sudden slide of rock trapped Galligan at 10 a. m. E.S.T., Friday. Two companions escaped.

Galligan's 80-year-old father, Patrick, who had kept vigil at the scene from the time of his son's plight was learned, was among the several hundred spectators who witnessed the rescue. The son greeted his father with: "Hya pop, I'm okay but a little hungry."

The loose dirt covering Galligan's refuge, a small chamber which did not cave in, made the rescuers task doubly difficult. A steam shovel worked to dig away dirt during the early part of the work was abandoned when new slides threatened and toward the end the rescuers worked two and three at a time in a space only four feet square under the constant threat that they too might become engulfed by new slides.

A one-inch pipe driven through the wall of dirt into the miners' tomb early Sunday night gave Galligan air. When the weary, mud-coated rescuers shouted through the pipe: "Do you want to come up?" Galligan replied: "Yowsah."

Survivors Report On Sub Disaster

Portsmouth, N. H., May 29 (AP)—While divers renewed operations today preparatory to salvaging the sunken submarine Squalis and its ghostly crew of 26 dead, navy officials scanned written reports of the 33 survivors in an attempt to ascertain what happened on the fatal dive last Tuesday.

Asserting each one of the men rescued with the escape, bell had written his story of the tragedy, Lieut. Commander John B. Longstaff said "the purpose of these written statements is to get a permanent record of the men's version of the disaster early before minor events are forgotten."

Longstaff, aide to the commandant of the navy yard here and one of those rescued when the submarine S-5 sank in 1920, said all the Squalis survivors were back on active duty.

County Communities Hold Memorial Day Events Over Week-End

American Legion held a service in the cemetery.

H. W. Hoffman, of Bendersville, presided during the program. The Biglerville high school band played several selections and Donald Wenk gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

After the service in the cemetery, the Rev. Mr. Frank spoke in the Wensville Methodist church. Basing his remarks on the poem, "In Flanders Fields," by John McCrae, the speaker attacked the war profiteers and the people who claim that war is inevitable. He stressed the fact that it was not the people of the nations that opposed the Allies who were to blame for the last war, but rather the munitions racketeers. He said that it appears that we have broken faith with the heroes of the past through our preparations for more wars. If we want to keep faith we must build for peace, the Rev. Mr. Frank concluded.

York Springs

Annual Memorial Day exercises were held at the York Springs Lutheran church cemetery Saturday afternoon. Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, of Gettysburg college, was the guest speaker. A parade preceded the ceremonies. The invocation was given by the Rev. H. E. Millard and the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Haas.

Following the services the York Springs high school baseball team defeated Biglerville high 5-1.

Mt. Joy

The Rev. D. Perry Bucke paid tribute to the soldier dead but warned against giving too much attention to the past to the neglect of charting a wise course of further action in a Memorial Day address Sunday afternoon at Mt. Joy Lutheran church.

The exercises in the church were held after flowers had been strewn in the church cemetery and a brief ritualistic services conducted there by Sons of Veterans of the community. The church service was opened with devotions by the Rev. Paul Beard, pastor of Mt. Joy church. Wilbur Waybright recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

After the exercises the Sons of Veterans of the community re-elected Frank Waybright their president and chose John W. Black as secretary-treasurer. The group each year conducts the Memorial exercises.

Bendersville

A large audience heard Charles S. Smith, of the Carlisle Commercial college, deliver a Memorial Day address in Bendersville on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Smith stressed the value of the American home today and pointed out that the nation needs more fine homes, wherein the religious faith is fostered. He said the foundation of democracy is religion.

The Carlisle educator concluded his address by saying that the Hebrews gave the world God; the Romans gave the world law, and the Greeks gave the world art. What will the Americans give the world?

The Rev. Dr. O. D. Coble, pastor of the Bendersville Lutheran church, offered the invocation for the exercises. The Rev. Nelson Frank, Bendersville Methodist minister, gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address and offered the benediction at the close of the service.

B. C. Asper presided in the absence of Dr. H. H. Balsh, of Harrisburg, who was prevented from attending due to illness.

The Bendersville school children decorated the graves in the borough cemetery with flowers. Members of the Ira E. Lady American Legion post of Biglerville, and the Biglerville high school band also took part in the program.

RECRUITING CAMPAIGN LARGEST SINCE WAR

Washington, May 29 (AP)—High army officials are preparing the most intensive recruiting campaign since the World war, with a goal of nearly 115,000 recruits or reenlistments in the next 13 months.

The drive is designed to meet replacement and expansion needs of the air corps and other branches of the service.

Eighteen huge recruiting stations on wheels, new slogans, posters, motion pictures and the radio will be used.

A three-way tie for first place in the Adams county baseball league has resulted from the outcome of games played on Saturday.

Arendtsville came up with a two-run rally in the last frame to nose out Gettysburg here 9-8 after a nip and tuck battle. The upper counties collected a total of 16 hits off Knox and Stock while Thomas was nipped for nine by the locals.

Manager John Rindinger announced today that Charles Byers, New Oxford hurler, will twirl against Fairfield here Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

"Turney" Ecker's four-hit pitching was too much for Fairfield as Littlestown scored a 5-2 victory at Littlestown. McGlaughlin hurled nice ball for Fairfield but lacked sufficient batting and fielding support of his teammates.

Cashtown scored three runs in the second inning and five more in the third to score an easy 9-1 victory over Bendersville. Marshall hurled steady ball for the victors throughout and gave up a single run in the second frame. His triple scored a pair of runs in the first inning. Martin started for Bendersville but was shelled off the mound in the third, Jesse Bream and Crum finishing in fine style.

The Jackson Shoe nine scored its first victory of the season by blanking Bonneauville at Bonneauville 9-0. Weaver and Eck hurled for the losers.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, May 29 (AP)—Dugout dope: They are pulling wires to get a left-hand hitting outfielder, who can really slug, out of the American league and into the Dodger menagerie. . . . Rumor foundry now has Fred Haney due for the ax. Probably about as much truth to it as the Detroit-Greenberg phoney. . . . The Yanks will have to struggle along a bit longer without DiMaggio, whose bum foot is acting up again. . . . What with intentional passes being dished out to Billy Myers, the Reds must have the National league pitchers buffaloed sure enough. . . . Terry may come back from Quaker-town tonight with a Philly pitcher as an added attraction.

He saw stars.—It's a pity Joe Sawyer, pro at Rip's Sutton Place tennis courts, don't give a darn for autographs. . . . The other day he played against Katherine Hepburn. Helen Wills Moody and Rudy Vallee in succession.

Rue De Sockerue: Harry Lenny, the smart old fight manager, warns Lou Nova he'd better depend on science and not punching to beat Baer. We say ditto to that. . . . So far, Steve George, sports editor of the Sacramento Union, is the only coast scribe on hand for the bout. . . . Promoter E. Retach of Paris has invited Sixto Escobar, the bantamweight champ, to come over and cross blades with Peter Kane. . . . Mike Jacobs will make it worth your while if you can come up with a welterweight to fight Henry Armstrong. . . . Talk of a Maxie Rosenbloom comeback is still in the tap-room stage.

Today's Guest Star—George M. Varnell, Seattle Times: "Tony Galento says he'll quit drinking beer until after his fight with Joe Louis. . . . His health might be better if he'd pass up Louis instead of the beer."

Observation Ward: Paul Trout, the Detroit pitcher, can chew gum and tobacco at the same time. Ym, ym. . . . The British polo players said they didn't care about seeing the Giants or Yankees, but would like to see the Dodgers. . . . Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Crackers, says he has the fastest man in baseball in John Rucker (a nephew of old Nap) and would like to prove it with dough. . . . Mike Jacobs says he'll be transmitting fights by television in two months—at a cost of a slug per mile per hour. . . . Mrs. Ray Carlen, wife of Lou Nova's manager, and Ancil Hoffman, who manages Max Boer, are cousins.

What About This?—When the Giants and Dodgers hook up in that to-the-death double header Tuesday, Ford C. Frick, president of the National league, will be out on Long Island leading the Frick furies against Lowell Thomas' nine old men in a softball game. . . . Judge Landis ought to do something about it and that's fact.

Leo, you said it.—Leo Durocher: "We bought Poffenberger on Easter Sunday and I'm afraid the Easter bunny laid us the biggest egg of all."

Cocktail Hour: Elmer Layden, fishing around Minocqua, Wisconsin, got his limit every day, just as he does during the halfback season. . . . Frank Winchell, Florida's No. 1 baseball fan, is in town and can be reached at the Stork club, day or night. . . . Fordham will tee off at football practice August 28. . . . Jong John Woodruff, counted on as the four-minute miler of tomorrow, says he'll do no more galloping after the Olympics. . . . Old Bronko Nagurski is trying to decide whether to stick to wrestling or play one more season with the Chicago Bears.

BONNEAUVILLE WINS
Bonneauville's baseball team scored a 5-4 victory over the Westminster Tigers in a 10-inning game played Sunday afternoon at Bonneauville.

WILL MOYER DIES;

MUSIC COMPOSER
Stricken last Friday night in a Camp Hill street, Will D. Moyer, music composer, arranger and teacher, died Saturday night at his home at 2219 Page street, Camp Hill. He was 67 years old.

Son of George F. and Mary Kirk Moyer, Will D. Moyer was born in Perry county February 24, 1872. After the family moved to Kansas, he attended the College of Emporia, Kansas, and the Western Conservatory of Music.

He organized and directed the Harrisburg Pictorial Orchestra, an all-string orchestra, which made its initial appearance here during Pennsylvania Music Week several years ago.

BREAKS HIS ARM

FOR FOURTH TIME
Lloyd Stock, Jr., 16, New Oxford, sustained a double fracture of the right forearm Friday afternoon when he fell while playing baseball on the Spring Grove athletic field. He was taken to the Hanover General hospital, where he received treatment and had the fracture reduced. The youth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stock, North Peters street, New Oxford, had the misfortune to break his arm on three previous occasions. He is a sophomore in the New Oxford high school and a member of the school baseball team.

"HAPPINESS" BOYS RULED IN MAJORS, SUNDAY

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
The happiness boys are riding right side up again.

If you don't remember the "happiness" boys, they're the fellows who get fun out of baseball—which is better business for a lot of their associates.

That makes it easy to single them out of Sunday's big major league show.

Johnny Allen, the temperamental right-hander whose tattered shirt caused a furore in the American league and ended up in a department store window (the shirt, not Allen).

Dizzy Dean, the ex-popoff whose 185,000 pitching arm has been the most debated wind in all baseball. Van Lingle Mungo, the lean Carolinian who probably has had more fights, fines and suspensions than any current big leaguer and who set some kind of a record last year by drawing a salary of approximately $1,000 an inning.

Buck Newsom, much-traded, much-misunderstood mound maestro who once undertook to pitch both games of a doubleheader and in six seasons has played with four different American league clubs.

Allen went the route Sunday for the first time this spring to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox on three hits. Similarly Newsom's seven-hit 6-2 performance against his recent teammates, the Browns, gave the Detroit folks something to cheer for, too.

The New York Yankees, who saw a winning streak broken at 12 games only last week, already have built themselves another five-game string. They beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-5.

The Boston Red Sox also snatched a free-hitting game—a 12-7 affair—victimizing the Washington Senators.

Dean had his string of shutout innings broken at 18, but he held the Pirates to eight hits to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-2 victory. Mungo was bombed out of the box, just like a lot of others, in the Brooklyn Dodgers' 16-12 marathon triumph over the Boston Bees. Each team used four pitchers and Mungo not only stood up well in his four and a fraction innings of service, but contributed two timely doubles.

Cincinnati retained its lead in the National league by splitting a doubleheader at St. Louis, 6-5 and 8-4. Curt Davis bested Johnny Vandermeer in the first game to end the Reds' victory chain at an even dozen, but Paul Derringer was as steady as ever in taking the nightcap.

WESTMINSTER FIRE

CHIEF DIES IN CRASH

Westminster, Md., May 29 (AP)—Leroy H. Brown, 36, for six years chief of Westminster's fire department, was killed early Sunday in an automobile crash at Tyrone, small community on the Westminster-Taneytown road.

Sheriff Walter L. Shipley said he believed Brown had suffered a heart attack and lost control of his car, in which he was riding alone. The machine struck an eighteen-inch concrete wall on the lawn of one of Tyrone's few homes, then rebounded into a pole and overturned.

The crash, which occurred about 3:30 a. m., awakened several resi-

2 Spanish-American War Buddies Meet 1st Time in 37 Yrs.

Postmaster C. A. Williams and William Pilgram, Delta, Colorado, who soldiered together in the Spanish-American war in this country and the West Indies, met on Saturday for the first time in 37 years when the Colorado rancher came here on his first trip east since 1902—the year he staked out his quarter section in Colorado and began clearing the land for his cattle and alfalfa ranch.

Both men were members of Company E, First Regiment of United States Volunteer Engineers. Mr. Williams enlisted June 3, 1898. Both men went with the company to the West Indies for about four and a half months of service, returning to New York harbor on Thanksgiving day of the year.

Mr. Williams served as a photographer and Mr. Pilgram as a telegraph operator. Before enlisting he had been employed as a telegraph operator at Lees Crossroads in Franklin county.

During the years since the men last met soon after the war the pair kept up correspondence.

Mr. Pilgram will spend a week here. He also is visiting friends in Shippensburg and at Lancaster, where a nephew, a son of a member of the faculty of Franklin and Marshall college, will graduate from that institution this week.

Retired from ranching, Mr. Pilgram will return to Delta soon and reside there.

An Evening Thought

Opportunity, to statesmen, is as the just degree of heat to chemists; it perfects all the work—Suckling.

Out of the Past

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

The Deed Is Done: Mr. Stevens Seat Vacated! We learn from Harrisburg that the majority of the House of Representatives on Friday last by a vote of 54 to 34, carried out their unconstitutional and high-handed proceedings, and declared the seat of Mr. Stevens vacant! The Sergeant-at-arms arrived here on Saturday evening, with a writ from the Speaker, ordering a new election to take place on Friday, the 14th of June next. The proclamation of the Sheriff has not been handed to us—but we presume it will appear in the "Compiler."

The majority of the House were determined to get rid of Mr. Stevens by "fair means or foul," and have succeeded through the instrumentality of the latter. It is, taken as a whole, one of the most outrageous acts ever committed by a Legislative body—any we hope will, if anything can, open the eyes of the people to the danger and impropriety of placing power in the hands of such men as compose the majority of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania. Let them look to it before it is too late.

When the vote was announced, Mr. Kettlewell withdrew from the Legislature, and is now at home awaiting the instructions of his Constituents.

Since the above was in type we have received an Address of Mr. Stevens to the People of Adams county—from which it appears he has thrown himself upon them for re-election not as the candidate of a party, but as the candidate of an insulted and outraged people. "Let that people respond in a voice of thunder! They are striking not for the man—but for their outraged rights and insulted feelings!"

Married: On the 7th inst., by the Rev. Chas. Weyl, Mr. John Brame, to Miss Margaret Myers, both of Menallen.

On the 9th inst., by the same, Mr. James Prior, to Miss Hannah Camper, both of Menallen.

On the 14th inst., by the Rev. B. Keller, Mr. Thomas Pusey, of Maryland, to Miss Maria Beiler, of this place.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Our neighbor, R. G. McCreary, Esq., exemplary in every particular, and one of the most active and energetic members of the Christian Commission here and elsewhere devoting years of labor when the "cruel war" was in our midst, to the relief of the wounded and the suffering, at once went to the front of the battle in Virginia with stores, and has given his daily and nightly labor to the suffering. He returned home on Saturday, for recreation from his severe task. He performed there an arduous duty, ministering to the wants of the wounded—and giving to himself a remembrance of good done, which will be pleasant hereafter.

The First National Bank of Gettysburg having determined to increase its Capital Stock to $100,000, there is yet an opportunity afforded to those who wish to make good and save investment to subscribe and thus secure some of the stock. The books are now open for subscription at the Bank.

Married: On the 17th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. S. Henry, Dr. Thomas C. Kinzer, of Littlestown, to Miss Louisa S., youngest daughter of Amos Leffever, Esq., of Union township.

On Monday week, at Conowago Chapel, by Rev. Mr. Catanni, Mr. William Lilly, of Mountpleasant township, this county, to Miss Daly Gill, daughter of Dr. P. Gill, of Lincoln county, Mo.

On the 17th of April, 1864, at St. Joseph's church, Bonaughtown, by Rev. B. A. Shorb, Mr. John Dermody, formerly of Santa Fe, New Mexico, to Miss Susan A. Noel, of Mountpleasant township, Adams county.

On the 19th inst., by Rev. M. J.

Alleman, Mr. David Hoke to Miss Louisa Carl, of Berwick township, Adams county.

On the 19th inst., by Rev. S. Henry, at the Evangelical Lutheran Parsonage, Mr. James E. Fair, of Taneytown, to Miss Lizzie J. Hahn.

The "Young Folks": A number of the young folks of our town, of ages varying from 7 to 12, caught the contagion of a Concert from "Old Folks," who interested our citizens some weeks ago, determined to have one on "their own hook," and commenced preparations. Several active young ladies, pleased with the spirit of the young 'uns, took the matter in hand and gave the affair a form and system. The whole resulted in a "Young Folks" concert, at Sheeds & Buehler's Hall, on Saturday evening, which proved a complete success. Speeches, songs, tableaux &c., formed the programme. The little girls were dressed in white, and wore garlands, which added to their sweet voices in concert, and their striking tableaux constituted a scene which will not soon be forgotten by those who witnessed it.

Died: On the 7th ult., at Graysville, Ga., of measles, Mr. James G. Paxton, son of Nathaniel Paxton, of Company I, 94th Reg. O. V. I., formerly of this county, aged 31 years.

On Thursday, the 7th inst., Mr. Daniel Snyder, in the 53d year of his age, and also his son, Ezra Snyder, died the same day a few hours after, in 33d year of his age—Mr. Absalom Heidler died on Tuesday, the 10th inst., in the 69th year of his age. They were all residents of Hamiltonban township, and all died of small-pox.

On the 30th, Sarah E., daughter of Francis and Catherine Coulson, of Latimore township, aged 15 years.

On the 22d inst., Mrs. Nancy A. Meals, in the 65th year of her age.

On Saturday last, at the residence of Mr. D. Culp, in this place, Mr. C. W. E. Blessing, aged 32 years.

Among the rebel prisoners brought up in the steamer Jefferson from Fredericksburg to Washington on Thursday was a rebel citizen of that place, who was arrested for poisoning bread, and tendering it our wounded soldiers! The savage! Hang him, if he is guilty, at once!

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

WHY BE SO SECURE?

THIS security business that we hear so much about these days, isn't such a pure affair, after all. People and nations that get themselves into what they think is security, often grow boastful and become careless—and lose all!

History is forever repeating itself. Napoleon once thought that he was secure. So did thousands of people a few years ago, before so much in the world began to slide down hill. The fact is that no man is ever absolutely secure. But this fact is nothing to worry about. It's a good thing to feel that you are insecure. It puts you on your toes. It keeps you thinking. It makes you watchful.

People don't sleep when they know that insecurity is about them. That is, they don't oversleep. They do something about it.

We need insecurity, a little trouble, and hardship thrown in, to keep us from getting too soft and wasteful to our lives. The champion athlete puts his body through a great deal of punishment before he becomes fit for the supreme test of his powers. He who is overconfident all too often loses.

Even our most cherished friendships are never quite secure. Small happenings have blasted them. Our greatest security is our faith in a Supreme Being and in ourselves. No one can take that from us.

The thing that keeps all men forever striving and reaching higher, as well as thinking higher, is the knowledge within themselves that they are never secure—that anything may happen to spoil their most cherished plans. But that is what keeps us all going and doing.

Why, then, be so secure—or rather why worry about security? Are the billions of dollars of people's money being spent for vast armaments going to bring security and peace to the world? They never have in the past.

We know that we are to have taxes forever with us, and death ever before us. In between we are accorded the privilege to work, to dream, and to do what we can to make this a better and a happier world.

Two Against Love

By Frances Hanna

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heir-

Tally Mack, young farmer, whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Sealcliff.

Yesterday: Thorn closes the deal on what he thinks is oil land.

Chapter 25

The Rosewood Cabinet

The casts were removed from old Mack's legs on the fifteenth of October and he was allowed to hobble about a short while each day without the support of crutches. The doctor expressed wonder at the swiftness with which his bones had knitted, but Gramp insisted:

"Fiddlesticks! I'm tough and jest in the prime o' life! I got years ahead o' me to pester folks and git 'em in trouble and out of it."

However, now that he was more self-sufficient, Jocelyn could think of no excuse to postpone her wedding again. Not that she really wished to, she reflected, but she hated to leave Sealcliff, torn up as it was, and all the dear, familiar things she had always known. Nevertheless, Geoffrey was impatient, and she felt further delay would be most unfair to him.

The nights and mornings now were nippy and only in the middle of the day could she dive into the surf or the swimming pool. This particular day, coming out from a rigorous ten lengths in the pool, she saw Tally approaching her, a frown on his face.

Without preface he said: "I promised you long ago to give you first chance at buying that rosewood cabinet if I had to sell. Well it has to be sold."

"Why?" she asked, pulling the rubber cap from her head and shaking out her hair. "Isn't your farm making money?"

"Yes, I did have a small savings account but it went for the doctor's bill. Now the semi-annual taxes are due on this place and I must pay them. Your brother paid the first half last spring; now it's my turn and the only way I can raise enough money is on that cabinet. This antique dealer offered me five hundred."

Jocelyn picked up a thick Turkish towel and began wiping the water from her face and arms. Her legs felt cold. Why did Tally always approach her and speak to her as if he had a chip on his shoulder and hoped and expected she would knock it off?

"I'll ask Thorn for the money as soon as he comes home," she promised. "He hasn't given me my allowance yet this month and I need it. I—I have a lot of clothes to buy for my—my marriage."

Tally stiffened. "At least you'll never have to work for a living. It might have done you some good; still, you might have found out you couldn't take it."

"Don't bother," she called after his retreating back. I'll bring it over when I come to see your grandfather."

She went slowly into the house and up to her room. She was so lonely these days. She missed Bob terribly. She had come to dread the ritual of dinner because she had to face Thorn across the long empty expanse of table. Thorn had changed so since Nola's departure. He had certainly become a person of paradoxical moods. He was, by turn, morose or genial; silent or over-talkative. When she had inquired as to his sudden interest in Gramp he had put her off with an evasive answer.

'Wild-Cat Scheme'

Life, which until the Mack's advent, had flowed serenely and peacefully had now become complicated and unpredictable. Even her own mind and emotions were tangled up in disturbing complexities.

Hearing Thorn go into his room, she drew on a robe and knocked on his door. Her appearance seemed to startle him. He looked as if his clothes were full of pins sticking into him.

"Thorn, what on earth is the matter with you?" she demanded. "You're as jittery and jumpy as a racehorse."

"Oh, it's nothing. Nerves, I guess. I'll take a run in to the doctor's tomorrow and have him take a look at me."

She told him about the taxes and the rosewood cabinet, finishing: "So be a darling and write me a check for five hundred, will you? And while you're at it give me my allowance. You might spare a hundred or so extra for clothes because I'll be driving to San Francisco in the next day or so."

Thorn slumped into a chair as if his legs had suddenly refused to support him. He moistened his dry lips with the tip of his tongue.

"Lyn—the truth is—I can't give you any money at all. Not a penny. You see I—I have invested our money. I expect to triple it any day now."

"You mean you put every cent of our inheritance into some wild-cat scheme?"

"It isn't wild-cat," he defended. "It must be if you can triple money! Even I know that much! Thorn, you had no right to do it without consulting Bob and me. We have as much say about that money as you have!"

"Now don't get excited, Lyn. You know nothing about big business deals."

"Neither do you! You never handled a nickel in your life outside of the money Grandma gave you! What did you invest the money in, anyhow?"

"I refuse to discuss it with you. As soon as I make my turn-over I'll tell you and not before."

"What about the cabinet?" she cried. "I won't have a dealer getting it. And it isn't Tally's fault. Those taxes have to be paid and you know it. Why didn't you think of that before you took all of our money?"

"Ask Geoffrey to buy the cabinet for you," he suggested wearily. "Five hundred dollars should mean nothing to him when he has close to a million."

"I won't ask Geoff for money. I won't do it, I tell you!"

"Oh, Lyn, for goodness' sake, leave me alone. I have no money and that's the end of it."

On the verge of tears Lyn went in search of Tally; found him out in the stables pitching hay to the cows. She scuffled over the straw-covered cement floor, clenching her teeth to keep back the tears.

"Tally—Tally, I—"

Looking up, he saw how lovely she was with the coldness and arrogance gone from her face. At this moment she reminded him of a forlorn, disappointed child. There were tears behind her lashes and her mouth quivered with the effort to keep her voice steady.

"What's the trouble?" he queried, in the exact tone he used to Betsy.

"I—I can't raise the money. Thorn has invested everything and—and I g-guess you'll have to sell the cabinet—"

'I Hate You!'

In silence he regarded her a long time; said finally: "If that old piece of wood means so darned much to you, Jocelyn, I'll get the money some other way. And I guess Gramp won't object to your having it. We don't need it."

Her hands dropped limply to her sides. Tears spilled from her eyes and ran down her flushed cheeks. "This—is this the nicest thing anybody ever did for me," she stammered.

Tally, unwillingly answering the helpless appeal of her attitude, patted her shoulder. She kept on weeping. He dabbed at her eyes with his soapy-smelling handkerchief. Her head drooped to his shoulder.

"I love him," she thought, and cried harder.

"I always was a sucker for women's tears," he depreciated. Then abruptly he remembered the time she had feigned friendliness to stop him from building the fence. The softness in his eyes was replaced by grim self-mockery. "Jocelyn Russell, your a minx! You figured you could get around me with tears, didn't you? Well, the cabinet is yours. I never go back on my word—but you needn't play-act any more."

Her fists clenched, raised as if she were going to strike him. All the color drained from her face. "How can you say that to me?" she choked. "Oh, I hate you!—I hate you!"

With a jerk she freed herself of his detaining hand and ran out of the stables.

Tally picked up the fork and resumed pitching hay into the stalls. "Maybe she wasn't pretending," he said to the nearest cow. "Anyhow, I don't hate her. I wish I did. I'd be a sight better off!"

Meanwhile, Betsy sat, tailor-fashion, on the bed beside Gramp attempting to push Tex's forelegs into the sleeves of a doll's dress which was twisted about his recalcitrant middle. His plume-like tail swished angrily.

"Steady, Tex... steady," soothed Gramp. "If Betsy wants you for a doll she's goin' to fix you like one!"

Betsy, succeeding in drawing the white paws through the sleeves, proceeded to button the neck of the dress around Tex's throat. "Now, Tex, you be a good girl and mind Mama," she scolded, her small face intent with make-believe.

Gramp snorted. "He ain't no girl. Think a struttin' male like him wants to be wearin' women's duds?"

"I don't care," Betsy pouted. "Daddy promised me a doll like Josie's, but now I can't have it 'cause there isn't no money. Uncle Tally said so. Why isn't there money, Gramp?"

"On account o' me, I reckon, honey. These here busted legs o' mine cost a pretty penny. Maybe I ain't worth it—"

"Shame on you!" Jocelyn smiled, coming into the room. "Where's your vanity?"

"Busted," Gramp deplored. "Say, Josie, did Tally tote that cab'net of your grandma's into your place?"

She nodded. "It's in my room. Gramp, I'm worried. How is he going to pay the taxes?"

Continued tomorrow.

PRIVATE JOBS REDUCE RELIEF

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—The greatest weekly drop in the relief rolls—14,503 persons—since November is attributed by the Department of Public assistance to a boom in private employment and re-opening of soft coal mines after the recent shutdown.

The big reduction occurred in the week ended May 20, bringing the total on the dole down to 740,460, the department announced.

"The direct net effect of changes in private employment was more favorable than in any single week in the last two years," said Secretary Howard L. Russell.

16-Case Drop in County

For the week ending May 20, there were 24 relief cases closed in Adams county and eight opened. This change in the number of cases left 1,326 persons receiving relief at a cost of $2,526 weekly.

Marian Martin Pattern

A SLIM-LINE SHIRTWAISTER

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9777

Every woman with "weighty" problems has a picture in her own mind of a slimmer self. A dream that can easily come to life for you—if you set your needle to work on this slenderizing shirtwaister, expertly designed by Marian Martin. Such a simple dressmaking job, with its few seams and the ever-helpful sew-chart. The full, eight-gored skirt gives those grand up-and-down lines you need, while the softly fitting bodice is lapped over from back to front to look like a yoke. For a final slimming touch, the graceful collar continues down the front in a scalloped buttoned opening.

Pattern 9777 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Swing into summer in a light-hearted mood with a wardrobe-full of new clothes. Even if your budget won't "budge," you can find a way by ordering Marian Martin's new pattern book and stitching up your summer things at home. You'll find be-frilled street frocks... be-glamored evening wear... The new basque and "little girl" trends! Sportswear, sea-and-sun styles, housefrocks, bridal finery! The latest cottons, sheers and prints. Clothes for tiny tots, teens and twenties; slimming styles for matrons. Order a copy now! Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

High School Seniors Urged To Give Lives of Unselfish Service by Rev. Dr. Thomas

4:32. "And they were astonished at his doctrine; for his word was with power." He said in part:

"If we should call the roll of the great personalities of history, sacred or profane, we would find that none of them drifted into a life of great achievement, that they all had certain definite purposes. This is essential today for success in life.

"Traveler or Tramp?"

"I once saw a cartoon which was an artist's sermon to a graduating class. There were two views in it. The first pictured a man climbing up a steep, rugged road, his eye set upon a definite goal. The second represented a man sleeping under a shade tree while nearby his fellow mortals were toiling. The artist's thought about the latter was that after a time he would wake up and attribute his failure to get anywhere in life to the fact that he was born under an unlucky star and the world was against him.

"The title of the cartoon was 'Traveler or Tramp?' This question each of you must decide. Will you set up a goal and pay the price? Or will you sleep or idle your time and get nowhere? Success comes only to the traveler.

"The search of the human soul through all the ages has been to acquire knowledge, to know some thing of things, to gather out of the mysteries into which we are born some facts to which it could turn and feel that it had acquired something.

"If you really want to make your education of some account, you must use it for the benefit of others, and to do this you need only to follow the example given by Christ on earth.

Set Up a Fixed Purpose

"First, I would admonish you to set up early in your life a fixed purpose. At the age of 12 the Master said: 'Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?' Paul said: 'This one thing I do.'

"When you have decided in what way you intend to give your life to the service of mankind then I would urge you, secondly, to prepare to achieve that purpose. Some of the young people today seem to think that because they have devoted three or four years to acquiring an education then the world owes them a living. More recently that saying has been revised to state 'the government owes me a living.' What a fallacious ideal! Our Lord spent 30 years to prepare himself for three years' service. A service that has governed the course of mankind and influenced civilization ever since.

"I wish I could put into your heart the spirit of old Plato when he said: 'Every man should be a student of his own country and his own kind until he is 50 years old.'

Study Talents

"All college men and women are essentially teachers. What you learn gives you the imperial right to instruct others, to be leaders, to be standard bearers. With this being the case, I admonish you, thirdly, that you should think of how you are to present to others the truth God has implanted in your own hearts.

"Will men generally be glad for your coming, better for it and richer when you leave? Study how to use your talents. Make them strong and clean for the things that are right. You cannot live your life at its best if you live it for yourself. You must live it for others. Choose that which is highest and best.

"Be dependable. . . . Once you have made up your mind that you will do a thing and have given your word, then you do that thing.

"Fourthly, I would urge upon you the spirit of humility. No matter how much you know or how well you know it, there is still a great deal that you don't know and that you ought to know. How humble a great scholar is! Every real scholar who has learned that he knows anything has been awed by the amount that he finds he knows nothing about and ought to know.

Reward in Work

"But there is always the infinite God who does know. May you put all the knowledge you have under his care, his keeping, guidance and blessing. To this all-wise Father I commend you all.

"My young friends, if during the four years in high school, you have no real satisfaction, no reward for your work in getting knowledge, in solving problems, in discovering truth; if your reward was not in the work but simply in the form of a diploma on commencement day, then you have missed the best part of those years of training and culture.

"You are still young. You have most of your life before you. Your opportunities to correct this fundamental mistake will be abundant and the observation and experience of my years prompt me with all my heart to beseech you, as you now enter upon another period of life's work, to realize that your reward is always with you in the work that is worthwhile, in acquisition, in the happiness of contributing to the world's work.

"I am greatly interested in your highest welfare and happiness in this present world, so I beg of you—claim your birthright as a child of

DANGEROUS DANGLING

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—William Ford, 21, dangled head downward from a huge theatre sign 40 feet above the sidewalk for more than 15 minutes Sunday before firemen rescued him. Ford, a theatre maintenance man, slipped as he attempted to replace a bulb, but his left foot caught behind a rung of the sign's ladder to halt his earthward plunge.

EMERGENCY OVER

Bloomsburg, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Students at Bloomsburg Teachers' College can use the fire escape of North Hall, one of the College buildings, pretty soon now. Four baby robins now fill the nest on a step of the fire escape, which the students had blocked off with signs reading, "Please use other tower. Expectant mother."

WISE BIRD

Richmond, Va.—A brown thrasher assured herself and brood of a cool summer home by building a nest and hatching a family in the cab of an ice truck. G. L. Wagner said he watched the mother bird, worm on bill, hover over his truck a half mile before he stopped and discovered the nest.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

New York.—A near-sighted customer in the Indian bazaar at the New York World's fair dropped a quarter into the hand of a dignified lady in rich Hindu garb. "Tell my fortune," he said, "and no silly stuff." The lady stiffened. So did the dark, distinguished man with her. They handed back the quarter and stalked out. They were the Maharajah and Maharanee of Nepal.

WHAT? NO TRADE IN?

Goldendale, Wash.—Through the years as automobiles and tractors replaced horses, the Indian stood out as the bright spot in the life of a harness maker—he still depended on the draught animals. Now, however, sighed harness maker W. H. Ward, "the Indians are changing, too. They all bring in beaded vests and horsehair bridles they want me to buy so they can get gasoline."

IRON MAN

Quillayute, Wash.—It took more than study to earn a high school diploma for Alvin Fletcher. Alvin traveled 52 miles a day, 180 days a year—more than 37,000 miles—over Olympic peninsula wilderness roads to school.

FINE WEATHER—IT'S RAINING

Kintyre, N. D.—Governor John Moses was delivering a serious commencement address at high school graduation exercises here. Suddenly he stopped, lifted a finger. A hush came. "Listen," he murmured. "Here that? Isn't it wonderful?" His audience listened. It was raining.

QUICK RESULTS

North Loup, Neb.—An advertisement in the North Loup Enterprise read: "Wanted a good drenching rain for the North Loup valley. Will trade dry weather." Next day 1.42 inches rain fell.

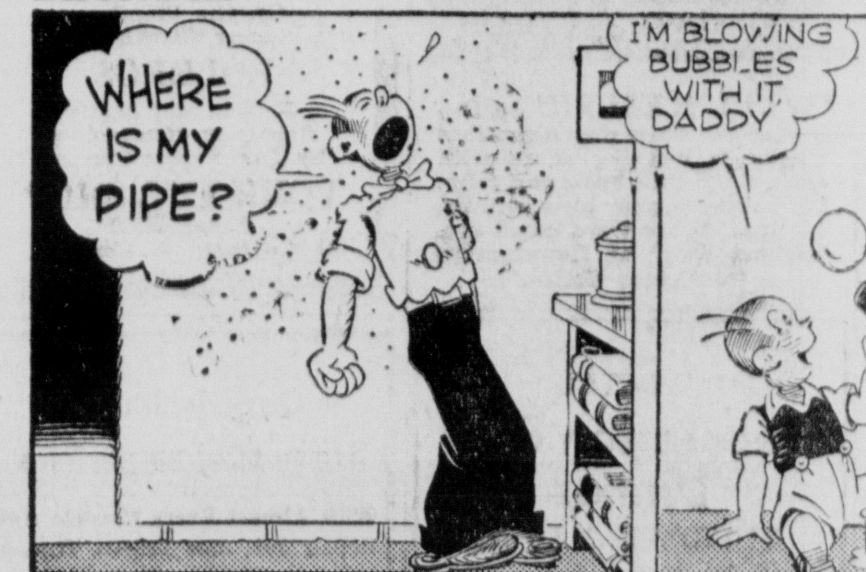

DIES IN CHOIR LOFT

Reading, Pa., May 29 (AP)—William M. Romberger, 27, dropped dead in the choir loft of St. James Lutheran church as the anthem was being sung Sunday. Dr. Paul D. Good, coroner, said Romberger, a former drummer in Jan Garber's orchestra, suffered a heart attack.

RUSSIA HELD FAVORABLE TO 3-POWER PACT

(By the Associated Press)

Whitsun holidays gave Europe's diplomats a rest and Europe's millions at least temporary respite from alarms today with Soviet Russia holding secret the answer to the continent's biggest question.

That was: Will Russia accept Britain's proposals, approved by France, for bringing the Soviet Union into the British-French front?

Moscow still was silent on the identical messages delivered to the Kremlin Saturday by representatives of Britain and France but in London the press and public took agreement for granted. Some informed British circles believed, despite absence of any outward sign of Russian approval or disapproval, that Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, would be instructed to accept the proposals for a mutual assistance accord on his return there today from Geneva.

British optimism, in which a British-French-Russian line-up was hailed generally as a great assurance of peace, appeared to have swung sharply in favor of Prime Minister Chamberlain as he began his third year at the head of Britain's government.

Some foreign observers in Moscow thought that Russia, however, might wait to see what Britain and France would do in connection with recent Japanese actions in the Far East before committing herself definitely.

In France, the graves of 30,000 American soldiers who were killed in the World war were decorated in memorial services held a day in advance of the American Memorial Day in order to coincide with the European holiday.

In Spain, nationalists said Generalissimo Francisco Franco would fulfill his promise to send home all foreign troops by the end of the week. The German Condor legion of 5,000 already has sailed, about 12,000 Italians will embark at Cadiz on Wednesday, about 500 Portuguese have been concentrated at Salamanca for home-going and the return of Moorish troops to Morocco also has begun.

HOLLYWOOD

By Robbin Coons
Hollywood—High on the list of any actor's dreams in Hollywood is the bugaboo of "typing." And I've just discovered that, just as in the Gershwin song, it ain't necessarily so.

There's a picture being made in which practically every principal—even, alas, including the director—has done a complete about-face in characterizations within the past two years.

Its called "Wife, Husband and Friend" although that probably will be changed. Hollywood hasn't changed THAT much.

But Loretta Young is the heroine. Two years ago, until "Love Is News," Loretta was our sweet, ethereal romantic; in this one she is sweet, but also a comedienne.

Hero is Warner Baxter, erstwhile dashing fellow, here doing his best to portray a blundering mugg of a spouse; "Friend" of the title is Binnie Barnes one-time romantic heroine, later a siren and heavy, currently in a semi-comedy role. And Cesar Romero, launched as an impassioned sheik-type screen lover, has gone through the heavy stage and emerged as a comic. J. Edward Bromberg, beginning as a villain, is clear of the stigma at last.

The director—and here is the sad part of all this—is Gregory Ratoff. He too has changed. Once until very recently, Ratoff was a champion screen-stealer, before the camera. Lately, with his ascent to a directional throne, the inimitable Ratoff has begun to yield to a malignant attack of Dignity.

The pink-faced cherub of the lots, whose accent is ingrown and can't be shaken off like other comic assets, has decided that buffoonery is hokum for dem dem hess to make piddle left, but not for a director. Meester Ratoff, he is try to be deegnety, yah, though it keel heem. Meester Ratoff no more like to have piddle spik of his accent. These ces sad, verec sad. I hope, Meester Ratoff will recover and play true to "type" again. Behind the cameras, as it is, there is little enough cheer. I want a Ratoff who will continue to be funnier than anyone he directs—and dignity to the contrary, that is the Ratoff we still have.

Speaking of "types," it looks as if the feminine stars have achieved a return to the more placid role of interested spectator in the screen's battles. Last year, the glamor girl who was not up to taking a clip on the chin from the hero was scarcely worthy of consideration. Carole Lombard, as the most frequently unique position, Irene Dunne, Myrna Loy, Claudette Colbert and other queens "took it" for their art, and a good hair-pulling, scratching contest between two feminine pugilists was written into many scripts.

This year, the girl aggressors are being given a back seat while the manly males are being allowed to assert their manliness and reveal the hair on their chests. The outdoor-action features, so useful in musing up the charm and beauty of the males, are permitting the heroines to relax.

Occasionally, there is still a battle royal between ladies, like the hammer-and-tongs encounter of Alice Faye and Connie Bennett for "Tallspin." But such vigorous goings-on seem but nostalgic reminders of the days that were.

passage over Newfoundland, but at Saint John, N. B., airport officials heard a plane they thought might be Smith's.

The former transport pilot had 160 gallons of gasoline — he calculated it was enough to take him 3600 miles at a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour — when he rose from the beach at this ocean resort at 3:47 a. m.

(E.S.T.) Sunday.
Smith had the equipment to fly blind, if necessary, but no radio. His only means of communication consisted of three canvas message bags he hoped to drop to ships at sea. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith expressed themselves as "amazed" when news of their son's solo take-off reached them at Clarksburg, West Virginia. "We had no advance notice," said the father, a lawyer.

Nor did the civil aeronautics authority, officials said at Washington, adding they had given no permission to the flight.

Charles Deand, Cincinnati, one of the associates who helped Smith prepare secretly near here for the flight, said weather reports indicated good

Dr. C. E. Ackley Heads Public Instruction Dept.

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—Dr. Clarence E. Ackley, deputy superintendent of Public Instruction, was appointed acting superintendent of the department today.

Dr. Ackley will replace Dr. Lester K. Ade as head of the department, whose term expired today.

Dr. Ade served as superintendent of the department for four years. He was a holdover from the democratic Earle administration but a constitutional provision extends the term of that official until May. Most other high appointive officials gave up their jobs when a new administration takes office.

NAVY SAID TO BE INFLUENCED BY COMMUNISTS

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The house committee on un-American activities, it was reported today, had decided to investigate naval officers' reports that communistic and other organizations have influenced the "loyalty, morality and discipline" of enlisted men.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) said that Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) of the committee had promised "to make a thorough investigation at once" of Navy department statements that they had discharged "a number of enlisted men" because of membership in groups considered "at odds with the purpose of national defense."

The committee last week heard testimony that anti-semitic propaganda was being sent to a group of persons which included some Army and Navy reserve officers.

The Easton representative said he had turned over to Dies, at the latter's request, testimony of naval officers before a house judiciary subcommittee during hearings on a bill to regulate subversive movements.

The officers supported parts of the bill because they said that under most circumstances they were powerless to prevent circulation of communistic and other leaflets. Commander Albert M. Bledsoe of the Navy's bureau of navigation, said during the hearings:

"From time to time the Navy department receives word that organizations whose aims are considered inimical to those of the United States government are attempting to influence, through subversive and seditious measures, the loyalty, morale and discipline of the enlisted personnel of the Navy."

"These attempts take the form of distribution of circulars and leaflets urging our men to violate their oath of allegiance and by personal contact with the men trying to influence adversely their discipline."

Bledsoe added that the campaign had not been very successful because of the type of men the navy has been recruiting. But Lieut. Ira H. Nunn, of the judge advocate general's office, testified:

"I understand that within recent months the Navy department has found it necessary to discharge a number—I do not know the number—of enlisted men because of their membership in communistic or other organizations considered to be at odds with the purposes of national defense. x x x We simply discharge them as undesirable."

$20,000 COLUMBIA BLAZE

Columbia, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Firemen fought two hours Sunday to extinguish a blaze at a pretzel-potato chip factory here. Robert Martin, manager of the plant, estimated damage at $20,000.

'WELL HEELED' in the land of the Nazis may mean that milady is wearing shoes with extra-thick cork heels and soles, the better to peer over crowds, my dear! These were noted at a "fashion race" at Hoppegarten track near Berlin.

To Bury Body of Southern Soldier In Hagerstown

After resting in an unbound grave for seventy-five years a Confederate soldier will be buried with full military honors in Washington Confederate cemetery on Sunday, June 4.

The remains were uncovered last June 17, on the Gettysburg battlefield about 150 yards northwest of "The Angle" and after having been identified as those of a Confederate soldier were turned over to the superintendent of the Antietam battlefield for burial in the confederate cemetery at Hagerstown.

Confederate organizations suggested that the remains be held until Confederate Memorial Day for interment, and Superintendent Beckenbaugh obtained permission from the National Park service to delay the interment until June 4.

Workmen engaged in digging trenches for water lines for the encampment of the regular army units in connection with the 75th anniversary celebration at Gettysburg uncovered the shallow grave. The grave was about 16 inches in depth. In the excavation, which was carried on under the supervision of park technicians, a number of body bones as well as sections of the skull and several teeth, were found. Careful sifting of the ground in which the remains were found revealed two small white buttons, which appeared to be those of an undergarment and a blouse button. The blouse button found near the skull has been identified as a Confederate infantry officer's blouse button.

The area in which the grave was located is shown on the chart of temporary burial plots as a Confederate burial ground extending from the Emmitsburg road eastward to a line near this grave. As the remains were found along the border of this burial plot, it is thought, at the time of the exhumation of Confederate bodies and their removal to southern cemeteries, that this grave was overlooked.

It is believed that this soldier was a member of Heth's division which supported the left of Pickett's division during Longstreet's assault on the afternoon of July 3, 1863.

At the request of Superintendent Beckenbaugh the funeral ceremonies will be in charge of Morris Frock post, American Legion, Hagerstown, and the remains will be accorded full military honors.

Among the most curious plants of the world is the "Electricity Trees" of Central India. These trees, when touched, give a distinct electric shock. They are shunned by birds and insects they are so heavily charged with electricity that they affect a compass as far as 60 to 70 feet away.
